Second Presbyterians Teach Cooking, Canning and Sewing to Big Class.

The settlement school of the Second Presbyterian church neld its closing exercises at the church annex Friday. There were in attendance 115 pupilis and a number of visitors from among the friends of the school. The exercises consisted of an interesting program in which all the school book part, and later an old-fashioned Watermeion cut-ling was enjoyed on the church lawn. This school book is under the direcing was enjoyed on the church lawn. This school which is under the direction of Miss Carolyn Woods is doing a fine work and constitutes one of the most important phases of the life of, the Second church. The work is conducted throughout entire year with the exception of a few weeks of the hottest summer weather and is so arranged that it is of great practical value to those who attend. There is a class in cooking, under the direction of Miss Clara Hassleck, in which the girls of the neighborhood are given instruction in preparing all varieties of palatable dishes for the table, and also in canning truit and vegetables. There is a splendidly equipped kitchen, with gas range and all necessary accessories, which makes it possible for the pupils actually to do the work under the direction of their teachers. This department has given them to the Crippled Children's hospital.

Under the leadership of Mrs. P. H.

Under the leadership of Mrs. P. Under the lendership of Mrs. P. H. Fagin, a sewing class is conducted in which the girls are taught to do plain and fancy sewing. As a result of the instruction received here many of the girls have been able to make their ow clothes. Mrs. Fagin is assisted in this work by several of the members of the Second church and also some worker from the other Presbyterian churches the city.

Second church and also some workers from the other Presbyterian churches the city. For the little folks of the neighborhood e kindergarien is conducted by Miss Bose Fagin, with the Essistance of Miss Ellen Parks, of the Idlewidd Presbyterian church. This is one of the largest departments of the work as well as being the most interesting. The young ladies in charge of this department entertain and instruct a large number of the smaller children of the angels borhood, keeping them from the dangers of the street, and giving their mothers an opportunity to rest, or attend to other duties.

For the boys there are classes in meodwork, basket weaving and ham mack making.

Thoughts For The Quiet Hour

REV. G. W. KEMPER, D.D.

Someone has said there are "days when the blood flows like wine." Yes, days when the sky is blue, and the birds sing, and the flowers blossom and are sweet about us; when life is an anthem and a delight, and on such days the love and joy of this world suffice us. But a change soon comes. we are weary and disappointed, when the ekles lower into somber night, when there is no song of the birds and the perfume of the flowers is but their dying breath, when all is dreary autumnthen we yearn for Him who sits with the eternal summer of love in His soul, and we know that all earthly affection is but a glow worm's light compared to that which blazes with such effulgence in the heart of our God! The serious problem of how to get on in the world is today a great puzzle to many. All kinds of answers have been given and all kinds of experiments have been tried, but it is still a knotty problem. The best solution that has come to us so from an old colored man. He was very feeble, but cheerful and full of hope. When asked how he was getting along, he made this most remarkable answer: "Boss," said he, his face all aglow, "I'se jes makin' de very best I in out ob de worst!" Yes, and that is just what all of us need to do all the time. Many a heartache will be saved if we would only do the very best we can out of the very worst that may befall us.

How often we have pitied old Atlas, of ancient mythology, as we have seen him pictured for childhood's instruction, stooping under the load of a round world lodged upon his shoulders! And yet today, but must needs add tomorrow to our burdens. How foolish, and yet how common. Guard well today, but why fret over tomorrow—which never comes? What we need is more of the grace prom-ised us by Theavenly Father. Then we will be in a position to sweep aside every encumbrance and "run with patience" the race

Daniel Webster was once asked why he went twice on Sunday to hear a plain country preacher when he paid no attention to tar better and abler sermons in Washington. His reply was: "In Wash-ington they preach to Daniel Webster the statesman, but this man has been telling Daniel Webster the sinner of Jesus of Nazareth, and His love, and it has been helping him!" Too much of our present-day preaching is more or less to the galferies and not enough of ti aimed directly at the heart of the real listener. The gospel in all of its simplicity and power is what is needed, and the preacher who neglects the deeper needs of the human heart, in order that he may

M McLeskey will preach Sunday at 11 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Morning subject. The Trials of Human Faith. Thris-tlan Eudeavor society at 7:18 p.m. subject last Sunday and the sermon made such an impression on the congregation that there were numerous requests to have it repeated tomorrow. The pastor consented to do so. Dr. Hotstead previously sent out questions, asking of members of the congregation and others in the city how differently would they shape their life courses if they were to do it again. Many of these replies were incorporated in the sermon.

Exports Larger.

"We are just now shipping more goods out of our ports to foreign markets than we ever shipped hefore—not foodstuffs, merely, but stuffs and materials of every sort; but this is no index of what our foreign sales will continue to be or of the effect the volume of our exports will have on supplies and priess. It is impossible yet to predict how far or now long foreign purchasers will be able to thich the money or the bredit to pay for or sustain purchasers will be able to the time money or the bredit to pay for or sustain purchases on such a scale; how soon or to what extent foreign manufacturers can resume their former production, foreign farmers get their accustomed crops from their own fields; foreign mines resume their former output, foreign merchants set up again their old machinery of trade with the ends of the earth. All these things must remain uncertain until peace is astablished and the nations of the world have concerted the methods by which normal life and industry are to be restored. All that we shall do, in the meantime, to restrain profiteering and put the life our our people upon a tolerable footing will be makeshift and provisional. There can be no settled conditions here or eigewhere with the treaty of peace is out of the way and the work of liquidating the way has become the chief concern of our government and of the other governments of the world. Until then business will free witably remain succulative and sway now the way and egain that with heavy losses or heavy gains as it may chance, and the consumer was take care of both the gains and the losses. There can be no peace prices so long as our whole financial and economic system is on a war basis.

"Europe will not, can not recoup her capital or put her regiless, distracted peoples to work until she knows exactly where she stands in respect to peace; and what we shall do is for her the chief question upon which her quictude of mind and confidence of purpose depends. While there is any possibility that the peace terms may be

And SHELL THE CONTROL OF THE PARTY OF THE PA the full advantage of rising prices. They will now see the disadvantage of, as well as the danger of holding off from the new process of distribution.

"Some very interesting and significant facts with regard to stocks on hand and the rise of prices in the face of abundance have been disclosed by the inquiries of the department of laborand the federal trade commission. They seem to justify the statement that in the case of many necessary commodities effective means have been found to prevent the normal operation of the law of supply and demand. Disregarding the surplus stocks in the hands of the sovernment, there was a greater supply of foodstuffs in this country on June 1 of this year than at the same date last year. In the combined total of a number of the most important foods is quite 19 per cent. And yet prices have risen. The supply of free greater by nearly 10 per cent than the supply on hand at the same time last year, and yet the wholesale price was do cents a dozen as against 30 cents a year ago. The stock of frogen fowls had increased more than 228 per cent, and yet the price had risen also, from 344 cents per pound to 374 cents. The supply of creamery butter had increased 128 per cent and the price had gone up from 134 a barrel to 136 a barrel, Canned corn had increased in stock nearly 32 per cent and had remained substantially the same in price. In a few foodstuffs the price had increased. For example, the stock of canned tomatoes had increased in stock of canned tomatoes had increased 100 per cent, and yet the price had been the usual result of an increase of price had been dispreportion in which the supply had increased. For example, the stock of canned tomatoes had increased of prices had been disproportionate to the decrease of supply, but in almost every instance the increase of prices had been disproportionate to the decrease in stock.
